Type I: Cautious skiers on smooth slopes of gentle to moderate steepness. Skiers who designate themselves as Type I receive lower than average release/retention settings. This corresponds to an increased risk of inadvertent binding release in order to gain releasability in a fall. This type also applies to entry-level skiers uncertain of their classification.

Type II: Skiers not classified as Type I or Type III. Skiers who designate themselves as Type II receive average release/retention settings appropriate for most recreational skiing.

Type III: Skiers who prefer fast skiing on slopes of moderate to steep pitch. Skiers who designate themselves as Type III receive higher than average release/retention settings. This corresponds to decreased releasability in a fall in order gain a decreased risk of inadvertent binding release.
